

CHIEF WITNESS TELLS MURDER STORY

WALTER LEWIS, SON OF SLAIN
MAN, DRAMATICALLY, RELATES INCIDENTS OF FATAL EVENING

Jury Is Obtained Late Tuesday Evening To Hear Testimony
In Murder Trial of Horace Van Horn, Darby-Twp—
Court Room Quiet as State's Witness Gives Testimony; Two Other Witnesses Called

The dramatic story of events leading to the death of his father, William T. Lewis, was told to jurors in common pleas court here Wednesday morning and afternoon by Walter Lewis, the deceased man's son, when the state opened its case in an effort to send Horace Van Horn, aged 55, Darby-twp trustee, who has been indicted for the alleged murder of William Lewis, to the electric chair.

The court-room was hushed. Not a sound could be heard except the occasional opening of a door to admit another interested person as the younger Lewis was telling the story of the night of Nov. 8 when his father met his death. Standing at a black-board on which was a sketch drawn by Ralph Wood, deputy county engineer, and exhibited as state's exhibit, Lewis, with a yard stick, showed the location where his fight with Van Horn occurred and where his late father was lying in the field just off the lane leading to the Lewis home when run over.

Prosecutor E. L. Crist emphatically stated in his talk that the state would try for the death penalty against Van Horn and stated that the three times Van Horn is alleged to have run over Lewis' prostrate body will be proven by neighbors who saw the lights of the Van Horn car as it circled through the field.

The defense, with I. F. Snyder making the statement, said that an effort will be made to prove that Van Horn's act was an accident was not done with premeditated malice.

The defense contends that Walter Lewis is responsible for the entire altercation.

Frank S. Mitchell, local photographer, was the first witness called for the state and showed pictures taken at the scene of the altercation.

Ralph Wood, deputy county engineer, was then called to the stand and he produced a map showing the tracks. The defense offered many objections to Wood's testimony but all were overruled by Judge Cleveland.

The jury was obtained late Tuesday afternoon. In it are in the positions in which they are sitting:

Back row: Mrs. Cora Riegel, Scioto-twp, housewife, No. 1; Mrs. Mabel Heiskell, Deer Creek-twp, housewife, No. 2; Frank Shell, Monroe-twp, farmer, No. 3; A. J. Lyle, W. Mount-st, this city, plumber, No. 4; Ernest Stopes, Perry-twp, clerk, No. 5; Jesse Pitt, Muhlenberg-twp, farmer, No. 6; Mark Fricke, Salt Creek-twp, farmer, No. 7; Cecil Noecker, Walnut-twp, farmer, No. 8; William List, Washington-twp, farmer, No. 9; Orren Updyke, Circleville-twp, farmer, No. 10; Mrs. Minnie Bowles, Scioto-twp, housewife, No. 11; Turney Krimmel, Jackson-twp, farmer, No. 12.

An alternate juror was selected in case of illness of any of the original 12. He is John Bell, Circleville-twp.

The jury was sequestered and will be kept together in the Boggs Hotel during the hours that they are not in the jury box. The three women are in charge of Mrs. Charles H. Mitchell and the men are under the wing of Oscar Woebber.

An entire floor of the Boggs hotel has been engaged for them.

Immediately after being empaneled the jurors were taken to the scene of the altercation in Darby-twp, two miles southeast of Derby. They were shown the locations where the fight is said to have occurred and where Van Horn is said to have run over the elder Lewis.

The court room was filled early Wednesday when it was learned testimony was to begin.

ROOM SILENT

While pointing out the exact movements to the jury, Lewis on one occasion, incapable of speaking as he glared at Van Horn seated not more than five feet from him. The hand which held the yard stick was clinched and shook as though the witness was ready to spring on the man, held for the death of his father. Young Lewis' mother, widow of the deceased man, sitting in the front row of the court-room watched the dramatic scene with little trace of emotion.

Lewis' testimony of going to Columbus with his wife and mother the evening of Nov. 8 and upon coming home finding the house ransacked was told to the jury. He said that his father had not yet arrived home and that he started to search for him. Just as he started out the lane he said, an automobile's lights were seen entering the lane at the far end. In the car was his deceased father and Van Horn. Lewis in his testimony stated that both men had been drinking. He said he and Van Horn argued and that the defendant got out of his automobile and threatened to kill him—Lewis.

FIGHT FOLLOWED

He said he asked Van Horn to go home and come back when he was sober but that Van Horn swung three times at him, failing to hit him either time. Lewis continued that he knocked Van Horn down several times.

The witness stated that he started to take his father home when Van Horn started at them in his automobile. Walter indicated on the map where he jumped and where his father who fell to the road was run over. He said Van Horn got out of the car and rolled Lewis on his back then went home.

At this time court was recessed until 1:30 when Lewis was again called to the stand.

Court was opened at shortly after 9 a. m. Wednesday when the state and the defense attorneys made opening statements.

BRIDGE SLAYER PUT ON STAND

Mrs. Bennett to Testify in Own Defense; To Tell Entire Story of Case.

KANSAS CITY, March 4.—Climaxing eight laborious days of Court routine Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett, comely brunet widow, took the witness stand in her own behalf today to tell her story of the slaying of her prosperous salesman John G. Bennett, following a quarrel over a bridge game September 29, 1929.

Although the placing of the widow on the witness stand had been expected since yesterday, it came with a suddenness after seemingly interminable delays brought by the wrangling of state and defense attorneys.

The defendant, attractively attired and evidencing nervous apprehension, was led to the witness stand by former United States Senator James A. Reed, chief of defense counsel.

ORDER PLANS FOR HARRISON-TP ROAD

County commissioners ordered J. Howard Sweetman, county engineer, to draw plans and specifications of the proposed improvement of Cromley road in Harrison-twp from the Scioto-Trail to Ashville and the Ashville-Lockbourne road to the Franklin-co line, as petitions for by 183 residents of that community. A second hearing will be conducted at a date not yet set.

ANTI-DRY LAW BACKERS WILL USE PETITIONS

Legislature Refuses Ohio Referendum Against the 18th Amendment

ACTION IS PLANNED

Two Percent of State's Voters are Needed

COLUMBUS, O., March 4.—Refused help from the legislature in their demands for a poll on prohibition, wets of Ohio today turned to the general electorate for assistance in their attempt to win the right to hold a referendum.

Within a few weeks the state will be showered with petitions calling upon the secretary of state to submit to the people of Ohio the proposal that the present prohibition amendment be repealed.

HARD AT WORK

A little group of anti-prohibitionists who are not yet ready to reveal their identity for several weeks have been hard at work drafting plans for resorting to the initiative and referendum method of obtaining the direct opinion of the electors on the wet and dry question.

The defeat in the house of representatives yesterday of the Nipper resolution to submit the question to the people of the state at a referendum today goaded the party of anonymous wets to new action.

"If the legislature won't help us get the opinion of the people, maybe the people themselves will come to our rescue," said one of the leaders.

A referendum must be called when 2 per cent of the voters of the state have signed petitions making such a demand.

Police and firemen in a score of cities, and labor organizations all over the state, have agreed to help distribute the petitions and guard them to see that they are signed legitimately, wet spokesmen said.

TO STUMP STATE

With the system that is now being set up, 2 per cent of the voters will have signed the petitions a few days after they are circulated, it was promised.

Members of the legislature who were disappointed when the Nipper resolution and other anti-prohibition legislation were rejected were said to be active supporters if not sponsors of the proposed initiative.

Several wets in the assembly were reported to be ready to stomp the state if necessary to obtain signers for petitions asking a referendum.

WARD ASSIGNED BY DRY CHIEF

John G. Ward Jr., former deputy sheriff, Wednesday received official notification of his appointment as prohibition agent of district 15 including Tuscarawas, Carroll, Columbiana, Harrison, Jefferson and Belmont-cos. Included in these counties are Steubenville, Belzira, Bridgeport, New Philadelphia, Dover, Cadiz, Salem and Carrollton.

Working with Ward will be E. S. Cullison, former Coshoccon-co sheriff.

The appointments were made by State Prohibition Commissioner Clarence H. Sears of Chillicothe.

REMOVE BODY FROM GRAVE

REYNOLDS, Ind., March 4.—On a quiet, snow-mantled hillside, among the tombstones of her mother and other ancestors, grave diggers today brought the body of Arlene Draves out of the earth in order that it might be examined for additional evidence in the trial of Virgil Kirkland, charged with the girl's murder.

Co-ed's Protest

ATTORNEY IS FOUND DEAD

Edward Peters, Prominent Cincinnati Man, Slain In Downtown Office.

CINCINNATI, O., March 4.—Edward F. Peters, wealthy and prominent attorney, sportsman and political leader, was found dead today in his office, located in a downtown building. A revolver was found beside his body.

Police believe Peters was cleaning the revolver when it was discharged and that the death was accidental. There were no witnesses to the tragedy, it was believed.

Peters, a widely known corporate lawyer, was a former president of the Duckworth Club, famous old Democratic organization. He had also been Democratic county chairman for several terms.

For years Peters' hobbies were big-game hunting and saddle horses.

As one of the most aggressive and resourceful leaders of the Democratic party in southern Ohio, Peters was a close friend of many notables, including former governors Campbell, Harmon, Cox, Donahay and the state's present governor White.

TWO BANDITS KILLED, THIRD CAUGHT TODAY

Findlay, O., Police Ambush Would-be Warehouse Robbers Today

SEIZED IN TOLEDO

Youth Confesses to His Part in Theft Attempt

FINDLAY, O., March 4.—Within only a few hours after two would-be robbers were shot and killed as they attempted to rob a wholesale grocery warehouse here, a third alleged member of the bandit gang who escaped during the melee, was captured and returned to Findlay by Chief of Police Frank Grant and Sheriff O. E. Willford.

Seized in Toledo, where he was traced through an automobile which he left abandoned after police trapped his two companions and killed them with a fusillade of bullets, Fred Baker, 32, confessed to being the "lookout man" for the burglar trio, police said.

FOURTH IS HELD

Ralph Baker, said to be a brother of Fred, was also taken into custody by authorities. It was his car, police said, that the would-be robbers used in their attempt to plunder the grocery warehouse.

Chester Pawlacz, 30, of Seattle, Washington, and an unidentified man, believed to be from Detroit, were slain as they attempted to enter the warehouse, by a hail of bullets from two machine guns in the hands of police who had been guarding the place as the result of previous attempts at robbery.

Confessing to his participation in robbery, according to police, Baker said he had been stationed on the outside as the "lookout man." When he heard the bullet shots from within the warehouse, he leaped into his car and started to speed away. In his excitement, however, he ran the machine into a coal heap.

ABANDONED CAR

Abandoning the car, according to the alleged story to authorities, Baker fled on foot and finally "thumbed" his way into Findlay.

Baker's father was responsible for the alleged would-be robbers' confession, Grant said. The parent became confused under questioning and finally admitted that he and his son had "trumped up" an alibi, the police chief said.

Baker denied knowledge of the identity of his companions. He said he knew them only slightly. Pawlacz was identified by a night watchman in a country market store near here, who said the men had entered the store recently and robbed it of about $40.

BANK TRIAL NEARS JURY

Daughter Case to Go to Jury After Attorneys Complete Final Pleas.

WASHINGTON, C. H. O. Mar. 4.—The case of Mal S. Daugherty who is charged with mishandling funds of the now-defunct Ohio State Bank was placed in the hands of a jury at noon today.

WASHINGTON, C. H. O. Mar. 4.—The fate of Mal S. Daugherty, charged with mishandling funds of the ill-fated Ohio State Bank, was only within a few hours of the jury today as state and defense of the attorneys began pleading their cases for and against the conviction of the former banker.

Three hours were allotted today by the court for the summation of each side of the case. It was expected that the attorneys will have completed their arguments by five o'clock this afternoon.

Judge Charles S. Beil, who has been sitting on the bench the last of the long trial session will deliver a written charge to the jury tomorrow morning, after which the former banker's fate will be placed in the hands of the jury.

Norman L. McLean, youthful Fayette-co prosecutor argued the final case of the state this morning. The defense counsel, headed by Ray Maddox, was to get its turn later.

Congress Dies At Noon Today

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—The 71st congress, in many respects the most remarkable of the post-war congresses, dies its constitutional death at noon today after two hectic years of turmoil and turbulence—and prodigious legislating.

It was called "the Hoover congress" when it came into power simultaneously with the advent of the new administration in 1929. Republican majorities were large in both houses. For the first time since reconstruction days, southern states were liberally represented by Republicans in the house. But "Hoover congress" was a misnomer—for few congresses in recent times have clashed more sharply or spectacularly with the president that has the dying seventy-first.

HONEYMOON SHORT

Mr. Hoover's honeymoon with the congress that came into office with him lasted barely a few months. He called it into special session five weeks after his inauguration to take up the relief of agriculture and to revise the tariff. Trouble began almost immediately and continued intermittently throughout its life, culminating a few days ago in the over-riding of his veto on the soldiers' loan bill by literally overwhelming figures.

Fourteen times has Mr. Hoover found it necessary to veto laws enacted by Republican-controlled houses.

Twice his vetoes were overridden by goodly majorities, and in other cases only the last of the party whip enabled him to emerge victorious.

On one occasion the senate refused to accept President Hoover's nominee for the United States supreme court, rejecting John J. Parker. And a Republican controlled senate cast 26 votes against the nomination of Charles Evans Hughes for the chief justiceship, after a bitter fight. Recalcitrant throughout, the insurgency and rebellion became almost unmanageable in its latter days after the country had witnessed a year of business depression. Probably not since the turbulent days of Wilson has a president met with such acrid criticism as this session has seen directed at the White House for its policy in meeting drought and unemployment situations. Most of it has been in the senate.

RECORD IS GOOD

Legislatively, the record of the 71st congress is imposing, even though some of its most notable accomplishments are so disputed as to their efficacy they will be carried into the 1932 campaign as keen issues.

Its first action of any consequence was the enactment of the so-called Hoover plan of farm relief, which set up a federal loan board and provided it with $500,000,000 to improve the condition of agriculture.

50 WORLD WAR VETERANS FILE PAY REQUESTS

County Auditor Bryce Briggs is Handing Out Data and Instructions

INTEREST IS HIGH

Officers of Legion Post Ask Needy to File

Following the passage of the bill allowing the holders of adjusted compensation certificates to borrow up to 50 percent on their face value in Congress last week a large number of applications have been issued to veterans in this county.

County Auditor Bryce Briggs who has been acting service commander of the American Legion in issuing applications has been kept busy since the bill passed dealing out the necessary data and instructions.

MANY ELIGIBLE

There are a great number of veterans in the county eligible to receive the loan, and up to this time more than 50 have made applications.

Veterans who have not applied for loans but intend to must bring their adjusted compensation certificate and their discharge before applications can be made. Those who have made prior loans must bring their "pink slips" in order that the application be made properly.

Officers of the local American Legion post have asked that those who are not in real need of the loans at this time wait until a later date to avoid the rush made by those who are in dire need of the money for the support of themselves and their families.

FACTS GIVEN

It has also been pointed out that the interest that the veteran will be charged with at four and one-half percent will at the time the balance is due and payable in 1945 or thereafter amount to more than eighty percent of the balance due. For example if a veteran holds a policy for $1,000 and borrows $500 at this time, there will be a balance due him in 1945 of $500 from which will be deducted interest in the amount of $425.97, so that instead of receiving $500 at that time he will only receive $74.03 costing him $425.97 to get the use of half the face value now.

It is believed that the amount of money received on these loans will help in stimulating the business of this community in aiding the men to pay old bills, and to buy those things which they have been needing.

Announcement was made Wednesday that Miss Clara Southward W. Franklin-st, has been employed as city social worker by the Benevolent Association and will begin her duties as soon as Mrs. R. O. Harrison of Washington C. H., employed temporarily, has completed her work. Miss Southward's selection for the post was made public after a meeting Tuesday at which Miss Sarah Coates of the Columbus family bureau explained the different work of city welfare.

The noon lunches which have been continued since Jan. 20 will be served to undernourished school children at the Presbyterian church beginning Thursday at noon. The last lunch was served at the Methodist church today.

A report of the number of lunches served since the project was started follows from Jan. 20 through Feb. 27, 2766 meals to 121 children in 56 different families.

ATTORNEY IS FOUND DEAD

Edward Peters, Prominent Cincinnati Man, Slain In Downtown Office.

CINCINNATI, O., March 4.—Edward F. Peters, wealthy and prominent attorney, sportsman and political leader, was found dead today in his office, located in a downtown building. A revolver was found beside his body.

Police believe Peters was cleaning the revolver when it was discharged and that the death was accidental. There were no witnesses to the tragedy, it was believed.

Peters, a widely known corporate lawyer, was a former president of the Duckworth Club, famous old Democratic organization. He had also been Democratic county chairman for several terms.

For years Peter's hobbies were big-game hunting and saddle horses. As one of the most aggressive and resourceful leaders of the Democratic party in southern Ohio, Peters was a close friend of many notables, including former governors Campbell, Harmon, Cox, Donahay and the state's present governor White.

TWO BANDITS KILLED, THIRD CAUGHT TODAY

Findlay, O., Police Ambush Would-be Warehouse Robbers Today

SEIZED IN TOLEDO

Youth Confesses to His Part in Theft Attempt

FINDLAY, O., March 4.—Within only a few hours after two would-be robbers were shot and killed as they attempted to rob a wholesale grocery warehouse here, a third alleged member of the bandit gang who escaped during the melee, was captured and returned to Findlay by Chief of Police Frank Grant and Sheriff O. E. Willford.

Seized in Toledo, where he was traced through an automobile which he left abandoned after police trapped his two companions and killed them with a fusillade of bullets, Fred Baker, 32, confessed to being the "lookout man" for the burglar trio, police said.

FOURTH IS HELD

Ralph Baker, said to be a brother of Fred, was also taken into custody by authorities. It was his car, police said, that would be robbers used in their attempt to plunder the grocery warehouse. Chester Pawlacz, 30, of Seattle, Washington, and an unidentified man, believed to be from Detroit, were slain as they attempted to enter the warehouse, by a hail of bullets from two machine guns in the hands of police who had been guarding the place as the result of previous attempts at robbery.

Confessing to his participation in robbery, according to police, Baker said he had been stationed on the outside as the "lookout man." When he heard the bullet shots from within the warehouse, he leaped into his car and started to speed away. In his excitement, however, he ran the machine into a coal heap.

ABANDONED CAR

Abandoning the car, according to the alleged story to authorities, Baker fled on foot and finally "thumbed" his way into Findlay. Baker's father was responsible for the alleged would-be robbers' confession, Grant said. The parent became confused under questioning and finally admitted that he and his son had "trumped up" an alibi, the police chief said.

Baker denied knowledge of the identity of his companions. He said he knew them only slightly. Pawlacz was identified by a night watchman in a country market store near here, who said the men had entered the store recently and robbed it of about $40.

BANK TRIAL NEARS JURY

Daugherty Case to Go to Jury After Attorneys Complete Final Pleas.

WASHINGTON, C. H. O. Mar. 4.—The case of Mal S. Daugherty who is charged with mishandling funds of the now-defunct Ohio State Bank was placed in the hands of a jury at noon today.

WASHINGTON, C. H. O., Mar. 4.—The fate of Mal S. Daugherty, charged with mishandling funds of the ill-fated Ohio State Bank, was only within a few hours of the jury today as state and defense of the attorneys began pleading their cases for and against the conviction of the former banker.

Three hours were allotted today by the court for the summation of each side of the case. It was expected that the attorneys will have completed their arguments by five o'clock this afternoon.

Judge Charles S. Bell, who has been sitting on the bench throughout the long trial session, will deliver a written charge to the jury tomorrow morning, after which the former banker's fate will be placed in the hands of the jury.

Norman L. McLean, youthful Fayette-co prosecutor argued the final case of the state this morning. The defense counsel, headed by Ray Maddox, was to get its turn later.

Congress Dies At Noon Today

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—The 71st congress, in many respects the most remarkable of the post-war congresses, dies its constitutional death at noon today after two hectic years of turmoil and turbulence—and prodigious legislation.

It was called "the Hoover congress" when it came into power simultaneously with the advent of the new administration in 1929. Republican majorities were large in both houses. For the first time since reconstruction days, southern states were liberally represented by Republicans in the house. But "Hoover congress" was a misnomer—for few congresses in recent times have clashed more sharply or spectacularly with the president than has the dying seventy-first.

HONEYMOON SHORT

Mr. Hoover's honeymoon with the congress that came into office with him lasted barely a few months. He called it into special session five weeks after his inauguration to take up the relief of agriculture and to revise the tariff. Trouble began almost immediately and continued intermittently throughout its life, culminating a few days ago in the over-riding of his veto on the soldiers' loan bill by literally overwhelming figures.

Fourteen times has Mr. Hoover found it necessary to veto laws enacted by Republican-controlled houses.

Twice his vetoes were over-riden by goodly majorities, and in other cases only the last of the party whip enabled him to emerge victorious.

On one occasion the senate refused to accept President Hoover's nominee for the United States supreme court, rejecting John J. Parker. And a Republican-controlled senate cast 26 votes against the nomination of Charles Evans Hughes for the chief justiceship, after a bitter fight. Recalcitrant throughout, the insurgency and rebellion became almost unmanageable in its latter days after the country had witnessed a year of business depression. Probably not since the turbulent days of Wilson has a president met with such acrid criticism as this session has seen directed at the White House for its policy in meeting drought and unemployment situations. Most of it has been in the senate.

20 SEALERS CONVENE HERE

J. C. Tinkey of State Department Explains New Scales, Pumps to Group.

About 20 county auditors and deputy sealers of weights and measures were present at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, in Masonic Temple, Wednesday morning. Representatives from surrounding counties contributed short talks.

J. C. Tinkey, of the state department of weights and measures explained new types of scales and pumps to the newly appointed deputy sealers.

Announcement has been made from the U. S. district court that C. M. Gibson has been appointed receiver for Dan H. Seigel, owner of Dan's Dollar stores, of which one is located here. The receivership was brought about by the suit of the Standard Overall Co. vs. Dan H. Seigel.

50 WORLD WAR VETERANS FILE PAY REQUESTS

County Auditor Bryce Briggs is Handing Out Data and Instructions

INTEREST IS HIGH

Officers of Legion Post Ask Needy to File

Following the passage of the bill allowing the holders of adjusted compensation certificates to borrow up to 50 percent on their face value in Congress last week a large number of applications have been issued to veterans in this county.

County Auditor Bryce Briggs who has been acting service commander of the American Legion in issuing applications has been kept busy since the bill passed dealing out the necessary data and instructions.

MANY ELIGIBLE

There are a great number of veterans in the county eligible to receive the loan, and up to this time more than 50 have made applications.

Veterans who have not applied for loans but intend to must bring their adjusted compensation certificate and their discharge before applications can be made. Those who have made prior loans must bring their "pink slips" in order that the application be made properly.

Officers of the local American Legion post have asked that those who are not in real need of the loans at this time wait until a later date to avoid the rush made by those who are in dire need of the money for the support of themselves and their families.

FACTS GIVEN

It has also been pointed out that the interest that the veteran will be charged with at four and one-half percent will at the time the balance is due and payable in 1945 or thereafter amount to more than eighty percent of the balance due. For example if a veteran holds a policy for $1,000 and borrows $500 at this time, there will be a balance due him in 1945 of $500 from which will be deducted interest in the amount of $425.97, so that instead of receiving $500 at that time he will only receive $74.03 costing him $425.97 to get the use of half the face value now.

High School to Play Central Hi

Cincinnati high school got a good 'break' in the pairings for the district class A tournament, to be held at Edwards gym, Delaware Friday afternoon. The Tigers will play Columbus Central's Pirates, champions of the Capital City league in the second game of the tournament Friday afternoon at 4:45 p. m. If the Tigers would manage to pull the entirely unexpected and bump Central—quit tossing those grapefruits—they would play the winner of the Columbus North and Marion Harding game.

Pickaway-class B teams including winner, runner-up and third place team, have entered the tournament. Salt Creek twp. champions of the county, will tangle with Caledonia at 9 a. m. Saturday. The winner of the game will play the winner of the Granville-Johnsville contest at 5 p. m. the same day.

Pickaway twp. has been drawn in a tough bracket and will face Summit in its first game at the Otterbein college gym at Westerville. This contest is booked for Saturday at 1 p. m. The winner will play either Marysville or Grandview at 8 p. m.

Ashville is scheduled to take the floor at 8 a. m. Saturday meeting Kirkpatrick, the winner to play Gambier or New California.

While county teams don't seem to have much chance to advance very far in the tournaments it is expected large crowds will see them play.

MALONEY AND CARNERA SET

Heavyweights Rest For Bout Tomorrow night; Crowds Gather at Miami.

MIAMI, Mar. 4.—Primo Carnera of Italy and Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight, rested today for their bout here tomorrow night. They completed their training grinds yesterday.

The Italian did almost nothing in the way of a final workout, at least as far as the public was concerned, although it was reported he had worked in private. Maloney did a few brisk rounds of floorwork.

There is little betting on the fight as the fans seemed timid about their guessing. Reports Carnera's injured rib may have healed slowly and Maloney's determination to repeat his Boston victory over Carnera have caused the fans to refrain from expressing their sentiments in wagers of any size.

Maloney said today he was confident of winning and thus getting a chance at Max Schmeling, world's champion, if the German wins from Young Stribling in June.

Plans were completed today to welcome the party being brought here from New York by Bill Dwyer, the New York hockey magnate, which will include seven former world's boxing champions. They are Benny Leonard, Johnny Kilbane, Mike O'Doud, Johnny Wilson, Battling Nelson, Johnny Dundee and Frank Klaus.

It works out all right. Families with no children usually have a dog to occupy the back seat.

WARSHOWER LEADS OHIO

Brooklyn, N. Y. Scoring Guard, Tops Offensive of Grover's Champs.

ATHENS, O. Mar. 4.—Jerry Warshower, of Brooklyn, N. Y., the only letterman on the 1930-31 Buckeye conference championship basketball team at Ohio University, led the Bobcat quintet in scoring during their 17 game schedule which closed last Friday.

Warshower scored in every game of the season with the exception of a contest with Muskingum which he was forced to miss, being confined in the university hospital with an attack of influenza. Warshower scored a total of 101 points, the only Bobcat to pass the century mark. He scored 35 field goals and 31 fouls.

The reason the Ohio University quintet was dangerous always is shown in the individual scoring records. Seven on the squad finished the season with fine records, all of them scoring over 35 points.

George Lockman, of Hamilton, was second high with 77 points, lacking but one field goal of scoring as much as Warshower but having only 9 fouls to his credit. John Trace, Zanesville, had 76 points to take third place.

Snadel Saunders, star guard from Columbus, ran up 61 points to lead Harry Lackey, of Youngstown, who had 60 markers. Harold Brown, of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Vernett Wolfe, Athens, had 36 and 37 points respectively.

The other members of the squad scored as follows: Russell Kipper, Wellington, 13; Clyde Newell, Cleveland, 7; George Collin, Sidney, 7; Howard Doll, Portsmouth, 6; Ben Test, Cleveland, 5; Carl Campbell, Nelsonville, 2; and Walter Williams, Cleveland, and Roy Mills, Youngstown, 1 each.

When Albert Fray, of Grangeville, Ida., performed an autopsy on his cow to discover the cause of its death, he found that the animal's digestive organs contained 8 nails, 1 large tack, 6 inches of wire and a strip of copper 1-2 inch wide by 3 inches long.

Wesley Eddy, who will act as master of ceremonies for a Buffalo (N. Y.) theatre, must neither marry nor grow a moustache until 1934, according to the terms of his 3-year contract with the manager of the theatre.

VETERANS AND ROOKIES HOLD SPOTLIGHT IN BALL CAMPS

NEW YORK, Mar. 4.—When Mr. Humpty Dumpty separated from his famous wall was regarded as quite a thing in the way of sudden collapse. But today it appeared poor H. D.'s flop was merely a cracked lip compared to what may happen to some of our baseball gentlemen.

Never before have there been so many great ball players as this spring. Down under the scented palms of Florida, California and Texas it seems everyone who ever saw an umpire is really much better than Babe Ruth was when he was good. Indeed, one gets the impression up here where coal is still a utensil that the Ruths, Gosbuns and Hack Wilsons are kept on the payrolls through outright stupidity.

And yet when play actually starts in the National and American leagues some excellent collapse records should be garnered. A few of the veterans have been rejuvenated overnight and the rookies now reported to field, and play now and bridge with a grace and poise that the empy posts of baseball surely would approve, undoubtedly will discover training camp diamonds somewhat of a fantasy and the big time grind totally different.

One of the finest crashes is being constructed by Rogers Hornsby, the new manager of the Chicago Cubs. He has promised to do mighty things but if he succeeds in one of them he won't have to do the others. We mean, playing regular second base for the season.

From Catalina Island off Los Angeles reports come that Hornsby is still a ballplayer but doubt remains as to whether he is a great manager and day after day second baseman in addition. It would be surprising if Hornsby is still keystoneing at the end of June in view of his injured heel and the woes and cares induced by an owner who demands a pennant or nothing.

Another old timer that we like for a good, high class crack this season is Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees. He was so good last year they used him at second, shortstop, and third base and he most likely will start somewhere in the infield this spring. But Tony and if he is not keeping sunshine off the bench by July, look out for Joe McCarthy wearing a monocle.

Among the boys just coming up who have had considerably writing home for them are young Radcliffe of the Chicago White Sox and Marvin Olson of the Boston Red Sox. For days we have been searching to find something the matter with these god-like creatures but if there is anything dark in their pasts even their mothers-in-law don't know about it.

Radcliffe was purchased by the Sox with the idea he might make a third string first baseman in a couple of years, but it developed he is so fast and sure everyone else simply broke down and limped off the field, leaving this southwestern league prodigy to write his memories. Radcliffe is a left hander, only hits .369 and has a fielding average of about .999.

Olson went to college in South Dakota, was a ten second man, leader of the Junior prom and football star when he had time.

TO COLLECT TAX ON HUGE ESTATE

COLUMBUS, O.—The Ohio state supreme court today was asked to order collection of the inheritance tax from property, valued at $3,979,259 formerly part of the estate of the late George H. Marsh, who died Aug. 13, 1920.

In his will, Marsh left his property to a charitable institution known as "The Marsh Foundation," but, having died within a year after the will was executed his bequest was held invalid.

This property then went to Marsh's sole heir, a daughter, Mrs. Katie Marsh Clymer, who agreed, on Oct. 19, 1920, to transfer to the executors of her father's estate such deeds and other documents as were needed to complete its transfer to the Marsh Foundation.

Acting upon the application of Albert T. Stroup, as prosecuting attorney of Van Wert-co, the Van Wert-co probate court determined the amount of inheritance tax due.

Holding that the property, in view of its transfer to the Marsh Foundation, is not liable under the inheritance tax act, Mrs. Clymer appealed to the common pleas court. The state tax commission then appealed to the appellate court which upheld the judgment of the common pleas court.

The appeal to the supreme court is styled "The state, on relation of Albert T. Stroup prosecuting attorney of Van Wert-co, and the state tax commission, against Katie Marsh Clymer."

"I'M ALONE" PROBE IS UP

WASHINGTON.—State department legal experts tackled anew today the two-year-old rum-running problem arising from the sinking March 22, 1929, by coast guards, of the Canadian schooner I'm Alone.

The controversy bobbed up again with presentation of the Canadian side of the case for submission to the joint international commission named to arbitrate the matter.

Canada presented again, this time in the form of a legal brief, contentions she voiced in correspondence more than a year ago.

The brief set forth the old blanket charge that coast guards were not justified when they sank the I'm Alone as a suspected rum-runner after a two-day chase in the Gulf of Mexico.

To the Canadian claims, officials indicated today the United States will make the same reply as in the spring of 1929—that the action was justified, legal, and that the drastic steps were taken only after the Canadians refused orders to leave.

Justice Willis Van DeVanter of the U. S. supreme court, and Justice Lyman Poore Duff of the Canadian supreme court, comprise the commission. Former Senator George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, will present the American case to the commission. John E. Read, legal advisor to the Canadian external affairs department, will represent Canada.

Canada claims the schooner was more than an hour's sailing distance from shore when the cutter

Wolcott approached her. Under a 1924 treaty the coast guard is permitted to start pursuit within one hour's sailing distance from land. The American government will contend the I'm Alone was within an hour's sailing distance of land, and that the calling in of a second craft which sank the schooner and caused the drowning of a seaman, did not constitute a break in continuous pursuit.

The belief was prevalent in Canada had decided not to press the case because of her failure to furnish a list of the stockholders of the company operating the I'm Alone. American officials believe the I'm Alone, although Canadian registered, was actually operated by Americans.

It isn't an orthodox apartment if you have room for two guests at once without putting out the cat.

Dear Sirs:

As a public health officer, I cannot help but recognize the fact that your campaign to eliminate the evils resulting from promiscuous spitting and the spit-tipping method of cigar making is commendable and in line with the health work done by my own department.

I see that you call it a "Crusade of Decency". Certainly insanitary methods in cigar making are indecent. An advertising campaign like yours, which exposes such indecency and points the way to the cleansing of your industry, deserves the support of my department.

While I express no preference for your cigar over any other, I am pleased to inform you that I do endorse your campaign to show the public the advantages of avoiding insanitary practices. You are free to publish that fact or, if you wish, to publish this letter over my signature.

Very truly yours,

George Lockman, of Hamilton, was second high with 77 points, lacking but one field goal of scoring as much as Warshower but having only 9 fouls to his credit. John Trace, Zanesville, had 76 points to take third place.

Snadei Saunders, star guard from Columbus, ran up 61 points to lead Harry Lackey, of Youngstown, who had 60 markers. Harold Brown, of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Vernett Wolfe, Athens, had 36 and 37 points respectively.

The other members of the squad scored as follows: Russell Kepler, Wellington, 13; Clyde Newell, Cleveland, 7; George Collin, Sidney, 7; Howard Doll, Portsmouth, 6; Ben Test, Cleveland, 5; Carl Campbell, Nelsonville, 2; and Walter Williams, Cleveland, and Ray Mills, Youngstown, 1 each.

When Albert Fray, of Grangeville, Ida., performed an autopsy on his cow to discover the cause of its death, he found that the animal's digestive organs contained 5 nails, 1 large tack, 6 inches of wire and a strip of copper 1-2 inch wide by 3 inches long.

Wesley Eddy, who will act as master of ceremonies for a Buffalo (N. Y.) theatre, must neither marry nor grow a moustache until 1934, according to the terms of his 3-year contract with the manager of the theatre.

VETERANS AND ROOKIES HOLD SPOTLIGHT IN BALL CAMPS

NEW YORK, Mar. 4.—When Mr. Humpty Dumpty separated from his famous wall was regarded as quite a thing in the way of sudden collapse. But today it appeared poor H. D.'s flop was merely a cracked lip compared to what may happen to some of our baseball gentlemen.

Never before have there been so many great ball players as this spring. Down under the scented palms of Florida, California and Texas it seems everyone who ever saw an umpire is really much better than Babe Ruth was when he was good. Indeed, one gets the impression up here where coal is still a utensil that the Ruths, Goslins and Hack Wilsons are kept on the payrolls through outright stupidity.

And yet when play actually starts in the National and American leagues some excellent collapse records should be garnered. A few of the veterans have been rejuvenated overnight and the rookies now reported to field, and play golf and bridge with a grace and poise that the emily posts of baseball surely would approve, undoubtedly will discover training camp diamonds somewhat of a fantasy and the big time grind totally different.

One of the finest crashes is being constructed by Rogers Hornsby, the new manager of the Chicago Cubs. He has promised to do mighty things but if he succeeds in one of them he won't have to do the others. We mean, playing regular second base for the season.

From Catalina Island off Los Angeles reports come that Hornsby is still a ballplayer but doubt remains as to whether he is a great manager and day after day second basemen in addition. It would be surprising if Hornsby is still keystoneing at the end of June, in view of his injured heel and the woes and cares induced by an owner who demands a pennant or nothing.

Another old timer that we like for a good, high class crack this season is Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees. He was so good last year they used him at second, shortstop, and third base and he most likely will start somewhere in the infield this spring. But Tony and if he is not keeping sunshine off the bench by July, look out for Joe McCarthy wearing a monocle.

Among the boys just coming up who have had considerably writing home for them are young Radcliffe of the Chicago White Sox and Marvin Olson of the Boston Red Sox. For days we have been searching to find something the matter with these god-like creatures but if there is anything dark in their pasts even their mothers-in-law don't know about it.

Radcliffe was purchased by the Sox with the idea he might make a third string first basemen in a couple of years, but it developed he is so fast and sure everyone else simply broke down and limped off the field, leaving this southwestern league prodigy to write his memories. Radcliffe is a left hander, only hits 369 and has a fielding average of about .999. Olson went to college in South Dakota, was a ten second man, leader of the Junior prom and football star when he had time.

TO COLLECT TAX ON HUGE ESTATE

COLUMBUS, O.—The Ohio state supreme court today was asked to order collection of the inheritance tax from property, valued at $3,979,259, formerly part of the estate of the late George H. Marsh, who died Aug. 13, 1920.

In his will, Marsh left his property to a charitable institution known as "The Marsh Foundation" but, having died within a year after the will was executed his bequest was held invalid.

This property then went to Marsh's sole heir, a daughter, Mrs. Katie Marsh Clymer, who agreed, on Oct. 19, 1920, to transfer to the executors of her father's estate such deeds and other documents as were needed to complete its transfer to the Marsh Foundation.

Acting upon the application of Albert T. Stroup, as prosecuting attorney of Van Wert-co, the Van Wert-co probate court determined the amount of inheritance tax due.

Holding that the property, in view of its transfer to the Marsh Foundation, is not liable under the inheritance tax act, Mrs. Clymer appealed to the common pleas court. The state tax commission then appealed to the appellate court which upheld the judgment of the common pleas court.

The appeal to the supreme court is styled "The state, on relation of Albert T. Stroup, prosecuting attorney of Van Wert-co, and the state tax commission, against Katie Marsh Clymer."

"I'M ALONE" PROBE IS UP

WASHINGTON.—State department legal experts tackled anew today the two-year-old rum-running problem arising from the sinking March 22, 1929, by coast guards, of the Canadian schooner I'm Alone.

The controversy bobbed up again with presentation of the Canadian side of the case for submission to the joint international commission named to arbitrate the matter.

Canada presented again, this time in the form of a legal brief, contentions she voiced in correspondence more than a year ago.

The brief set forth the old blanket charge that coast guards were not justified when they sank the I'm Alone as a suspected rum-runner after a two-day chase in the Gulf of Mexico.

To the Canadian claims, officials indicated today the United States will make the same reply as in the spring of 1929—that the action was justified, legal, and that the drastic steps were taken only after the Canadians refused orders to leave.

Justice Willis Van DeVanter of the U. S. supreme court, and Justice Lyman Poore Duff of the Canadian supreme court, comprise the commission. Former Senator George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, will present the American case to the commission. John E. Read, legal advisor to the Canadian external affairs department, will represent Canada.

Canada claims the schooner was more than an hour's sailing distance from shore when the cutter

Wolcott approached her. Under a 1924 treaty the coast guard is permitted to start pursuit within one hour's sailing distance from land. The American government will contend the I'm Alone was within an hour's sailing distance of land, and that the calling in of a second craft which sank the schooner and caused the drowning of a seaman, did not constitute a break in continuous pursuit.

The belief was prevalent Canada had decided not to press the case because of her failure to furnish a list of the stockholders of the company operating the I'm Alone. American officials believe the I'm Alone, although Canadian registered, was actually operated by Americans.

It isn't an orthodox apartment if you have room for two guests at once without putting out the cat.

ACTION OF U. S.'S TREASURY READJUSTED REPORT STATES

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Unfavorable conditions resulting from discussions of the increased value of adjusted service certificates forced the treasury today to postpone the "real job" for readjustment of the public debt indefinitely.

March financing, taking the form of $500,000,000 in 3 1/2 per cent 12-year bonds, $600,000,000 in 2 per cent 12-month certificates and $300,000,000 in 1 1/2 per cent 6-months certificates, along with the refunding of $1,100,000,000 in 3 1/2 per cent notes will increase the long term debt by the amount of the bonds and will make no change in outstanding short term paper, officials asserted.

Of the borrowing March 16, $200,000,000 is "earmarked" for the veterans' bureau to meet bonus loans. Another $200,000,000 will be borrowed before June for this purpose and $300,000,000 additional between June and September. Officials estimated $1,000,000,000 would be required to meet total veterans' loans.

Last September when the decision was made to call the 3 1/2 per cent notes, it had been planned to issue $1,000,000,000 on 3 1/2 per cent bonds, to eliminate the same volume of short-term paper and thus clear the way for refunding of the First Liberty of $1,033,537,000 in 1932 and the Fourth Liberty of $6,268,232,500 in 1933. These issues are callable in those years.

This program had to be abandoned because of the new loans on bonus policies, officials said. Prior to 1933 it was anticipated that there would be a large bond issue to clear the market of more than $1,000,000,000 in short term paper.

Spokesmen for the treasury explained the situation in view of unfavorable reaction to the March financing program. In many quarters it was felt that the treasury was obtaining very attractive interest rates in view of the position taken before Congress in the fight against the new bonus loans. The opinion was expressed by treasury officials before the Senate finance and other committees that the bond market would be damaged by the bonus loans, although it developed that money is to be obtained at new low figures.

The amount borrowed for bonus loans is at 1 1/2 per cent, whereas the veterans will pay 4 1/2 on money borrowed from the government. It was anticipated that the bond issues between now and June to obtain the additional $200,000,000 necessary in that period for bonus loans will be at substantially the same low rate.

MEXICO CITY — Esten A. Fletcher, Imperial Potentate of the order of the Mystic Shrine, arrived here today accompanied by his wife and party. It is understood President Pascual Ortiz Rubio, who is now in Guadalajara, hopes to return to Mexico City in time to greet Fletcher officially. Ortiz Rubio last month became a Shriner and a thirty-second degree mason.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

For years a resident of this country I may perhaps, though of foreign birth be permitted to give expression to some thoughts suggested by our present political situation.

I am a native of Ithica—the land of Ulysses—but have traveled and mingled with men of various climes and races.

This country has been called the melting pot of nationalities. Of those who have sought our shores some have proved desirable, others undesirable additions to our population. Among the number I find myself here; not a mere on-looker, but as a naturalized citizen, watching with interest the course of events, the trend in politics.

Our country has grown as prospered, but today there are ominous clouds on the political horizon, a feeling of unrest, uneasiness about the future is evident. Of course for the present state of affairs there must be a cause. What is it? A question perhaps more easily asked than answered, I can only express my views.

In the first place we have sadly departed from the ideas of those who originally framed our constitution. Our country was supposed to be a model democracy, a government of the people, by the people.

Today legislation seems to be for big money, everything tends to centralization. The chain store owned and controlled by one or at least but few heads forces the legitimate merchant by one or at least but few heads forces the legitimate merchant out of business reducing him to clerkship, or some dependent or menial position.

Mergers of big concerns, controlled by a few owners results in reduction in number of employees and a condition of practical serfdom for the masses.

Since writing the foregoing I learn that Mr. Hoover, as if conditions were not already bad enough, suggests and advocates another railway merger. This especially interests me, my first home in America was Norfolk, Va., then Roanoke, Bluefield and later Columbus, Ohio. Hence I am familiar with the N & W Railway, one of the companies to be swallowed up in Mr. Hoover's suggested merger.

Now to my mind, in agreement with a number of well informed people with whom I have talked, these mergers can help neither the railroads nor the country and must do away with a number of employees. The merger Mr. Hoover suggests must of necessity hurt Norfolk, Roanoke, Bluefield and more than any other point in Portsmouth in fact every town through which the road passes.

It seems to me railway employees, and the various Chambers of Commerce should use every effort to defeat this proposed merger.

The advocates of these mergers promise that instead of reduction of forces more men will be employed. An idle promise which they have no idea of fulfilling. It has not proven true in other mergers, nor need labor believe for a moment their promise will amount to a row of pins.

Mr. Couzens is right, these railroad mergers are more the result of high finance than measures in the public interest.

I have said the future looks dark, our civilization is threatened. Russia is trying by propaganda to subvert the entire world.

This would indeed be a dire calamity, but the evil can be averted, unless by the legislation to which I have referred, we bring about this state of affairs. Legislation ever in favor of big money-mergers of every big interest.

'Against the merged might of the business barons with their interlocking directorates, and mass production, independent commercial endeavor is worse than futile. There they stand, the steel trust, the oil trust, the tobacco trust, the power trust, the money trust. What combination of private business compete with them?' (I quote from a speech of C. H. Edwards delivered at a meeting of the Virginia Press Association). It is a trite saying that "history repeats itself." But let us not forget what happened in France, when the rights of the masses were trampled by a hereditary aristocracy. The worm turned, and the horrible scenes of the French Revolution were enacted. May not class legislation the creation of a moneyed aristocracy produce like result here?

There are two classes here whose idea of Government is widely divergent. The first embraces (all them the common people if you will) our intelligent, worthy and law abiding American labor, and with them, an entirely in sympathy with them, the highly cultured teachers of our youth, ministers of the gospel and others.

This class which includes the mighty army of our best citizens regards Government as created to be of service to the people.

But there is another class who look on Government as an organization providing desirable berths for those who by any means, fair or foul, can get there, and stay there.

Arrived in any country, matters at this pass, and no legal remedy for the condition apparent, a resort to force appeals to many as the only remedy. Then comes the opportunity for the criminal class which includes those desperate characters who regarding neither law morality, nor religion are ready for murder, pillage, and all the excesses that characterized the French Revolution.

In conclusion, be it understood, I am not at war with capital without capital, and accumulated wealth, our country would go to ruin, would fail to have a place on the map, but I believe I cannot better express my own idea, than by quoting Mr. Hamilton Fish.

He says, "I believe in Capitalism as opposed to Communism but Capitalism shorn of it abuses and ugly greed to exploit labor and mankind for the almighty dollar."

Portsmouth, I believe, has already experienced the effects of one merger.

ISTANBUL.—Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian Bolshevik leader, and his family were homeless today. Fire destroyed the villa on Prinkipo Island where Trotsky has been living since his expulsion from Soviet Russia. Trotsky and his family barely escaped with their lives and many documents he valued highly were lost in the blaze.

Quick Diagnosis

ONE of two things is generally wrong with discussions of the nation's business situation. Either it is taken for granted that the country has gone to the dogs and will never be able to lift its head from the pillow again, or it is assumed that everything is really all right and that we need only a little bit of Pollyanna gladness and hope to be as prosperous and happy as we ever were.

Recovery will come, of course—will come, probably, before we have stopped wallowing about hard times. Sooner or later we shall be more prosperous and busy than we were in 1928 and 1929, and the time may not be as far off as we suppose.

On the other hand, there is no sense in trying to pretend that there is nothing the matter with us except a pessimistic frame of mind. The bread lines have been real enough; the Red Cross and other relief organizations have been busy enough. There has been plenty of suffering, and one must be a simpleton to deny it.

However, it is possible to strike a happy medium in appraising the situation.

In the current Magazine of Wall Street, Theodore Knappen reviews things and finds that while conditions are bad enough, 1930 has not by any means been a total loss.

For example, he points out that the brunt of the business depression fell on the steel, construction and automobile industries. But even so, these industries were better off than in 1929.

Similarly, the total volume of manufacturers in America in 1930 was far above the total for 1929. There was only a slight drop in electric power output from 1929. The gasoline consumption for 1930 was the largest in American history. Department store sales in 1930 equaled those of 1929 in volume, and were only slightly below them in value. Chain store sales increased in volume, and fell off in value only fractionally.

Nor is that all. Savings banks deposits gained during 1930. The aggregate of interest and dividend payments on securities was considerably ahead of that of 1929. Capital issues of domestic securities were larger than in any previous years except 1928 and 1929.

What does all of this mean? Why, obviously, that the country is in better health than we have supposed. This is not to say that there has not been much suffering. It is not to say that there has not been a great deal of unemployment, a great deal of hunger, a great deal of discouragement. But it does mean that the country is on a very sound basis for a healthy trade revival—which can hardly be postponed much longer.

Taxes and Industry

AN illustration of what heavy taxes may do is furnished by old English estates. Death duties, war taxes and other levies have so drained them that they can no longer fulfill their obligations to tenants, laborers and the public. One by one they are being sold for taxes or to the highest bidder, and bids are absurdly low today.

When a large English estate comes to grief it is a major catastrophe. In the United States it would mean throwing out of employment only a few servants and laborers. But English estates support whole villages and hundreds of tenant farmers, and these retinues are as dependent upon the estate owner as a child upon its father.

The nearest parallel case the United States provides is an industry closed by ruinous taxes. Increasing taxes are making it increasingly difficult for hundreds of factories to operate at a profit and compete with others enjoying more favorable tax rates.

That community which adopts toward its factories and other enterprises an all-the-traffic-will-bear-attitude is killing the goose that laid the golden egg. It is driving out established enterprises and locking the doors to new ones.

Every business enterprise is willing to pay its full share of the running expenses of the community in which it earns its living, but more than that it should not pay and often cannot pay. It is to the advantage of every individual and business to go where the local government is efficient or to make it efficient wherever they are.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Becoming cynical at her mother's wish to have her marry for wealth, Nancy Hollenbeck, young and beautiful, accepts the ardent attentions of Jack Beamer, who is married to a wealthy invalid. On a mountain trip, Nancy, after a brief courtship, marries Roger Decatur, a ranger. Sicken- ing of the loneliness with Roger away, she returns home to resume her old life, still keeping her marriage a secret. When Roger, deeply in love with Nancy, comes to take her back, she tells him unless he makes his home in the city, she will divorce him, although she realizes her own love for him.

CHAPTER XXXVII. DIVORCE?

"Yes, as quietly as possible, of course. No one knows we were ever married... a very simple affair... depend on you not to make it difficult."

She talked in her sweet, well-bred voice. He caught a word now and then, but he could no longer sense its meaning. Let Kitty be disagreeable if she wanted to, she could leave any time, with the money all ready. When anything went wrong she had only to reach down slyly and touch the wad of bills in her petticoat pocket. It was her independence, close at hand.

"Grandma, I'm married," said Nancy.

liked hot bread. Well, she'd have it on her tray in the morning with honey. Grandma was almost happy, thinking how pleased Kitty would be.

"To these all knees are bent, all voices pray."

"Thy love has blessed—"

"Grandma," Nancy came in the back way, flung her hat and coat on a chair.

"Yes, Nancy."

"Grandma, I'm married. I was married last summer, and it's all a mistake I've got to get a divorce. Nobody knows—it was a secret marriage. I don't know why I'm telling you. I'm just desperate, that's all. I thought... I guess I just wanted you to know."

Nancy flung back her head defiantly. She had kept from crying all the way home; she wouldn't cry now!

The old lady nodded understandingly. She went on kneading her dough. As if secret marriages and divorces were everyday happenings to her.

"You see, it takes money. That's why I'm so helpless. I've thought and thought—all the way home... I don't suppose you have any you could lend me grandma?"

For a long minute their eyes met. What she saw in Nancy's made Old Lady Hollenbeck look away. She thought of the farm, of a patient animal waiting on butchering day...

With something like a sob she lifted her skirt and dug into the pocket of her black sateen petticoat.

Grandma Listens.

Now that it no longer mattered now that nothing mattered—she remembered her. She was Mrs. Porter, the woman with whom Nancy had been staying when first she loved her... in the Meadows.

In his anguish he thought, half humorously, "Well, she was in at the start and the finish..."

"Ancient of days, who sitteth crowned in glory?"

"Grandma," he beckoned slyly in the kitchen to lift her sagging spirits. She was lonely and depressed. Her visit wasn't turning out as happily as she had expected. The girls were fears, but they hadn't much time for an old lady, and she hardly ever saw Peter. Just as soon as he would come in to talk with her, and they'd begin to enjoy themselves talking about the old days... the mission in San Francisco before the fire, the Golden Rule Bazaar...

Kitty would interrupt. It really seemed that she didn't want them to talk together.

Kitty wasn't very well, of course. That might account for it, but certainly she wasn't very happy. She never introduced her friends, and she didn't like it when Grandma tried to make friends for herself. The Freese's housekeeper was a real nice woman, and so was the Whaley's cook, always ready with a smile and a friendly word over the back fence, but Kitty got all upset over that and called them servants.

And then when Mrs. Whaley herself, the rich Mrs. Whaley, invited her over for tea she had a fainting spell and said Grandma had undone twenty years' work of putting that social charm in her place!

"Ancient of days, who sitteth crowned in glory?" It's surprising how you can cheer yourself up with a hymn when you sing it loud and strong. Grandma Hollenbeck sang and thumped at the raised biscuit she was making. Kitty said she

The Money.

Nancy fingered the bills nervously. She hadn't expected anything like this Papa's mother having a thousand dollars!

She said, "I could pay you back in six months—a year, anyway. You're sure you can spare it?"

"Yes, I can spare it."

"But you must have intended to do something with it, carrying it around that way!"

Old Lady Hollenbeck covered the bread pan with a clean dish towel and leaned, unsteadily for a moment against the table. For a moment—just a moment she hesitated. She saw herself, old and unwanted, in her son's house, eating the bitter bread of charity.

And then she saw herself, a young woman again, in her husband's house. Miserable. Humiliated. Disillusioned, and no one to help her get away... no divorces those days... no one to help her get out, even if there had been.

She thought of her granddaughter, Precy Nancy. Beginning the same cycle.

"Nothing I'd rather do with it!" She turned to Nancy, smiling, her eyes all pity and tenderness and the twist of pain on her mouth. So Nancy took the money. Hesitatingly, feeling bound to do it, Nancy began her story. But Grandma Hollenbeck didn't want to listen.

"No sense going all over it," she said, almost sternly. "It doesn't do any good to talk about troubles. Cure 'em if you can and bear 'em if you can't. That's all I can see about it. I had to bear mine. I guess I can help you get out of yours."

She was wondering what her own life would have been like if she had left Jason Hollenbeck the first time he struck her. But there were the children, of course, the children who all sickened and died but Peter...

"I'll never be able to thank you enough. Never. Never!" Nancy cried. She hid the money in her dress.

Who Struck Who At Elite Party

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Who struck who—and what for—at a party at the Embassy Club Saturday night was a general topic of discussion at the film colony today.

Different versions have cropped up concerning what happened at the party which was given for the motion picture relief fund.

Mary Pickford had a table reserved for seven guests.

In another party was Myron Selznick, actor's agent.

One version had it that William Bakewell, youthful actor, became embroiled in an argument with Selznick while dancing with Mrs. Chalf. Miss Pickford's cousin.

Another version had it that Bakewell and Selznick had merely indulged in a bit of friendly horse-play—that the actor had thrown some butter at Selznick, who retaliated by throwing a candle, which struck Mrs. Chalf's gown.

The principals in the affair could not be traced for their versions.

Theatres

AT THE GRAND
Having saved their money and invested it wisely, Dorothy Mack-aill and Milton Kibler, who play two of the leading roles in "Man Trouble," Fox Movietone all-talking drama, coming to the Grand theater Wednesday are numbered among the wealthiest players in Hollywood today. Nevertheless they both continue to work in pictures, and simply because their happiest moments are those spent before the grinding cameras and the glaring lights.

Sills is a director in one of the largest banks of Los Angeles, while Miss Mackaill has financial interests in a dozen enterprises. She owns a ranch operates an orange grove, raises cattle in Mexico, is a director of a prominent Los Angeles bank and holds large ship building interests in San Francisco.

It has frequently been asserted that nobody in Hollywood saves any money. This is just as false as the story that the film center is a hotbed of carousing. Magazine writers who have been sent to Hollywood to investigate these false reports, are almost a unit in declaring that Hollywood is a peaceful and industrious community which has been maliciously libeled.

AT THE CLIFTONA
Love-making is woman's basic career. Other careers are either expressions of this capacity in a woman, or symptoms of its unhealthy repression.

Miss White's latest picture, "Naughty Flirt," comes to the Cliftona theater with an all-star cast including Paul Page, Robert Agnew and Myrna Loy. In this Vitaphone version of the fast-stepping Frederick L. Bowen comedy drama, the heroine is said to make love much more efficiently than she types or handles a filing system.

A thrilling talking chapter play of the old west, "Indians Are Coming," a Universal production, will be shown by the Cliftona theater beginning Saturday. The first

When You OVER-INDULGE

PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESEA

For Troubles due to Acid Indigestion Sour Stomach Gas Constipation Headache

EVERY man, woman and child will occasionally over-indulge. But don't suffer for your indiscretions. It's folly to do so when you can so easily sweeten and settle a sour, upset stomach with a little Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Heartily eaters have long since learned the quick comfort this perfect food brings. Smokers know how it neutralizes nicotine, brings back a sweet taste, guards the breath. Women know what it does for nausea—or sick headache. And when children have over-eaten—or are bloated, constipated or otherwise upset—give them a little of the same, pleasant-tasting and milky-white Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

You'll be through with crude methods once you learn the perfect way. Nothing else has the same quick, gentle effect. Doctors prescribe it for sour stomach, indigestion, heartburn, gas, nausea, headache. It has been standard with them for over 50 years.

Insist on genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia; a less perfect product may not act the same. The genuine is always a liquid—never in tablet form—and the name Phillips is always on bottle and wrapper.

She was giving him her hand. He took it and nodded. He dared not speak.

When he looked up again Nancy was gone.

A plump matron with a flower-trimmed toque atop an old-fashioned pompadour had appropriated her chair.

He got up and walked toward the street. He mustn't break down. He must walk as though nothing had happened. As though Nancy did not want a divorce.

And out of his misery, through his tortured thoughts, he saw the lady of the flower toque again. She had sat opposite while he was talking to Nancy. He had remarked her florid coloring as one remarks a gaudy chromo on the wall. A queer, detached part of his brain had been struggling with her trying to place her.

"Grandma, I'm married," said Nancy.

liked hot bread. Well, she'd have it on her tray in the morning with honey. Grandma was almost happy, thinking how pleased Kitty would be.

"To thee all knees are bent, all voices pray."

"Thy love has blest—"

"Grandma!" Nancy came in the back way, flung her hat and coat on a chair.

"Yes, Nancy—"

"Grandma, I'm married. I was married last Summer, and it's all a mistake. I've got to get a divorce. Nobody knows—it was a secret marriage. . . I don't know why I'm telling you. I'm just desperate, that's all. I just thought . . . I don't know what I thought . . . I guess I just wanted you to know!"

Nancy flung back her head defiantly. She had kept from crying all the way home; she wouldn't cry now!

The old lady nodded understandingly. She went on kneading her dough. As if secret marriages and divorces were everyday happenings to her.

"You see, it takes money. That's why I'm so helpless. I've thought and thought—all the way home. . . I don't suppose you have any you could lend me grandma?"

For a long minute their eyes met. What she saw in Nancy's made Old Lady Hollenbeck look away. She thought of the farm, of a patient animal waiting on butchering day.

With something like a sob she lifted her skirt and dug into the pocket of her black sateen petticoat.

Her Reason.

Nancy took the money in her hands. Ten one hundred dollar bills. A thousand dollars! Imagine carrying all that money in your petticoat pocket!

"Why don't you keep it in the bank?" she asked curiously.

"Well, I don't know. I guess I'm old-fashioned." That was the best answer Grandma Hollenbeck could make on the spur of the moment.

There was another reason, really. It had to do with the late and not greatly lamented Jason Hollenbeck, her husband. As long as he lived she had never seen any money. Not even a five-cent piece. Whenever she had needed, whatever he conceded she needed, he bought for her grudgingly. After he was gone she kept whatever money she had in the house. She liked to know it was there. Right at hand. If she wanted to spend it, it is right there. She didn't have to ask anyone, not even the young man in the bank.

And there was another reason for keeping this money—all she had in the world—in her pocket. It was her independence. With it she could buy her way into a certain old people's home. Let Kitty be disagreeable if she wanted to, she could leave any time, with the money all ready. When anything went wrong she had only to reach down slyly and touch the wad of bills in her petticoat pocket. . . . It was her independence, close at hand.

The Money.

Nancy fingered the bills nervously. She hadn't expected anything like this. Papa's mother having a thousand dollars!

She said, "I could pay you back in six months—a year, anyway. You're sure you can spare it?"

"Yes, I can spare it."

"But you must have intended to do something with it, carrying it around that way!"

Old Lady Hollenbeck covered the bread pan with a clean dish towel and leaned, unsteadily for a moment against the table. For a moment—just a moment—she hesitated. She saw herself, old and unwanted, in her son's house, eating the bitter bread of charity. . . . And then she saw herself, a young woman again, in her husband's house. Miserable. Humiliated. Disillusioned, and no one to buy her freedom, no one to help her get away. . . . no divorces those days. . . . no one to help her get on, even if there had been. . . .

She thought of her granddaughter. Pretty Nancy. Beginning the same cycle. . . .

"Nothing I'd rather do with it!" She turned to Nancy, smiling, her eyes all pity and tenderness, and the twist of pain on her mouth.

So Nancy took the money. Hesitatingly, feeling bound to do it, Nancy began her story. But Grandma Hollenbeck didn't want to listen.

"No use going all over it," she said, almost sternly. "It doesn't do any good to talk about troubles. Cure 'em if you can, and bear 'em if you can't. That's all I can see about it. I had to bear mine. . . . I guess I can help you get out of yours."

She was wondering what her own life would have been like if she had left Jason Hollenbeck the first time he struck her. But there were the children, of course, the children who all sickened and died but Peter. . . .

"I'll never be able to thank you enough. Never. Never!" Nancy cried. She hid the money in her dress.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile—Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile

—Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas floats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute.

Mrs. Don Watt Named President of Presbyterian Young Ladies Class

The March meeting of the Young Ladies Bible Class of the Presbyterian church was held Tuesday evening in the social rooms of the church. This session marked the annual election of class officers, and at this time the class entertained the members of the Women's Bible Class of the church.

The business meeting was called at seven o'clock at which time the nominating committee with Mrs. Glenn Nickerson, chairman, Mrs. E. T. Hedges and Mrs. J. E. Mutschman, submitted the names of the following persons for officers for the coming year: Mrs. Donald Watt, president; Mrs. Aletha Lucas, vice president; Miss Margaret Weldon, secretary; Mrs. Maude Foster, treasurer and Mrs. John Mutschman, publicity chairman.

The entire slate was unanimously elected. Miss Edith Haswell, retiring president, presided at the business session.

The social session immediately ensued and members of both classes joined in an old fashioned song service, after which the program committee with Mrs. George McDowell as chairman, assisted by Mrs. E. S. Toensmeier, Miss Edith Haswell, Miss Florence Dunton and Mrs. Bruce Stevenson, presented a clever plan entitled "How the Story Grew" by Gleason.

The play a comedy in five scenes, depicted the velocity and the manner in which the imagination of a woman, in a small town, worked, as she passed a bit of news to her neighbor. The first woman told it to the second and so on, until eight women had repeated the story, each adding a little to the story, until it became a tragedy. The cast of characters in their order of appearance were:

Scene one, the kitchen of Mrs. Green. Mrs. Green—Mrs. Tom Renick; Mrs. Brown—Mrs. E. E. Potter.

Scene five, Mrs. Green's dining room. Mrs. Green—Miss Edith Haswell; Mrs. Rice—Miss Margaret Clark.

Scene three, Mrs. Doolittle's kitchen. Mrs. Doolittle—Mrs. Donald Watt; Mrs. Snow—Mrs. Aletha Lucas.

Scene four, Mrs. Taylor's dining room. Mrs. Taylor—Mrs. J. E.

Mutschman, Mrs. White—Mrs. J. O. Eagleton.

Scene five, Mrs. Green's dining room. Mrs. Green and entire cast.

Too much cannot be said, for the splendid manner in which the different characters were costumed and portrayed, and novel indeed were the various scenes, bringing to the memory of many of the guests, the furnishings of the years gone by. The play was staged under the able direction of Mrs. George McDowell.

At the close of the program, a delicious plate lunch was served by the refreshment committee, with Mrs. E. T. Hedges as chairman, assisted by Mrs. G. L. Schier, Mrs. Aletha Lucas, Mrs. Allyn Smith, Mrs. Robert Colville and Mrs. Harold Sharp.

CELEBRATE 60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Sixty years of wedded life, a goal seldom attained and yet more seldom with a large family circle unbroken by a single death, was observed Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Luther Junk and was giving a fitting celebration at their country home near Austin. Two hundred and fifty friends were received during the afternoon reception from two o'clock until five and for dinner in the evening, limited to the family, there were nearly fifty guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Junk received the friends who called during the afternoon to offer their congratulations, informally. In the line with them were the eight children, Miss Etta, at home, Mrs. Walter Jones, Elmer, Troy and Raymond Junk, Washington, Mrs. John Smith of Williamsport and Oather M. Junk, of Chillicothe, and Mrs. Riah Cline, of Frankfort, who was a bridesmaid of the original ceremony on March 2, 1871.

At seven o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Junk and their family were seated for a delicious dinner, planned and carried out very informally. The interest in the celebration was outstanding and attracted numerous friends from points outside of the county.

APPROVE OHIO HIGHWAY PLAN

Expenditure of Five Millions in 1931 and 1932 Appears To Be Passed.

COLUMBUS, O., March 4.—The expenditure of $5,000,000 during 1931 and 1932 for the development of a secondary highway system is every county of the state today appeared to be assured.

Though as yet uncertain as to whether the funds will be provided from the gasoline tax or a proposed increased auto license charge, both Governor George White and Highway Director O. W. Merrell were reported to be in accord with the principles of the secondary highway proposal already introduced by Senator Walter G. Nickels (R) of New Philadelphia.

It is the plan of both the governor and Merrell, according to Senator Nickels, to spend $2,500,000 for secondary roads this year from the highway construction fund. The same amount, he understands, would be expended for the same purpose next year.

Nickels is interested, he said today, in seeing that county labor and county materials are used wherever possible, in an attempt to provide work on the gravel roads for farmers during periods when they are not engaged in farm duties.

Nickels' bill, submitted several weeks ago, provides for the expenditure of $8,000,000 over a period of four years for a secondary highway system.

Approval of his plan by the governor and the highway director, he said today, apparently insures favorable co-operative action on a secondary highway system this season.

Mrs. Don Watt Named President of Presbyterian Young Ladies Class

The March meeting of the Young Ladies Bible Class of the Presbyterian church was held Tuesday evening in the social rooms of the church. This session marked the annual election of class officers, and at this time the class entertained the members of the Women's Bible Class of the church.

The business meeting was called at seven o'clock at which time the nominating committee with Mrs. Glenn Nickerson, chairman, Mrs. B. T. Hedges and Mrs. J. E. Mutschman, submitted the names of the following persons for officers, for the coming year; Mrs. Donald Watt, president; Miss Margaret Weldon, secretary; Mrs. Maude Foster, treasurer and Mrs. John Mutschman, publicity chairman.

The entire slate was unanimously elected. Miss Edith Haswell, retiring president, presided at the business session.

The social session immediately ensued and members of both classes joined in an old fashioned song service, after which the program committee with Mrs. George McDowell as chairman, assisted by Mrs. E. S. Toensmeier, Miss Edith Haswell, Miss Florence Dunton and Mrs. Bruce Stevenson, presented a clever plan entitled "How the Story Grew" by Gleason.

The play a comedy in five scenes, depicted the velocity and the manner in which the imagination of a woman, in a small town, worked, as she passed a bit of news to her neighbor. The first woman told it to the second and so on, until eight women had repeated the story, each adding a little to the story, until it became a tragedy. The cast of characters in their order of appearance were:

Scene one, the kitchen of Mrs. Green. Mrs. Green—Mrs. Tom Renick; Mrs. Brown—Mrs. E. E. Porter.

Scene five, Mrs. Green's dining room. Mrs. Bean—Miss Edith Haswell; Mrs. Rice—Miss Margaret Clark.

Scene three, Mrs. Doolittle's kitchen. Mrs. Doolittle—Mrs. Donald Watt; Mrs. Snow—Mrs. Aletha Lucas.

Scene four, Mrs. Taylor's dining room. Mrs. Taylor—Mrs. J. E.

Mutschman; Mrs. White—Mrs. J. O. Eagleson.

Scene five, Mrs. Green's dining room. Mrs. Green and entire cast. Too much cannot be said, for the splendid manner in which the different characters were costumed and portrayed, and novel indeed were the various scenes, bringing to the memory of many of the guests, the furnishings of the years gone by. The play was staged under the able direction of Mrs. George McDowell.

At the close of the program, a delicious plate lunch was served by the refreshment committee, with assisted by Mrs. G. L. Schlar, Mrs. Aletha Lucas, Mrs. Allyn Smith, Mrs. Robert Colville and Mrs. Harold Sharp.

CELEBRATE 60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Sixty years of wedded life, a goal seldom attained and yet more seldom with a large family circle unbroken by a single death, was observed Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Luther Junk and was giving a fitting celebration at their country home near Austin. Two hundred and fifty friends were received during the afternoon reception from two o'clock until five and for dinner in the evening, limited to the family, there were nearly fifty guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Junk received the friends who called during the afternoon to offer their congratulations, informally. In the line with them were the eight children, Miss Etta, at home, Mrs. Walter Jones, Elmer, Troy and Raymond Junk, Washington, Mrs. John Smith of Williamsport and Oather M. Junk, of Chillicothe, and Mrs. Riah Cline, of Frankfort, who was a bridesmaid of the original ceremony on March 2, 1871.

At seven o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Junk and their family were seated for a delicious dinner, planned and carried out very informally. The interest in the celebration was outstanding and attracted numerous friends from points outside of the county.

APPROVE OHIO HIGHWAY PLAN

Expenditure of Five Millions In 1931 and 1932 Appears To Be Passed.

COLUMBUS, O., March 4.—The expenditure of $5,000,000 during 1931 and 1932 for the development of a secondary highway system is every county of the state today appeared to be assured.

Though as yet uncertain as to whether the funds will be provided from the gasoline tax or a proposed increased auto license charge, both Governor George White and Highway Director O. W. Merrell were reported to be in accord with the principles of the secondary highway proposal already introduced by Senator Walter G. Nickels (R) of New Philadelphia.

It is the plan of both the governor and Merrell, according to Senator Nickels, to spend $2,500,000 for secondary roads this year from the highway construction fund. The same amount, he understands, would be expended for the same purpose next year.

Nickels is interested, he said today, in seeing that county labor and county materials are used wherever possible, in an attempt to provide work on the gravel roads for farmers during periods when they are not engaged in farm duties.

Nickels' bill, submitted several weeks ago, provides for the expenditure of $8,000,000 over a period of four years for a secondary highway system.

Approval of his plan by the governor and the highway director, he said today, apparently insures favorable co-operative action on a secondary highway system this season.

TOBACCO TAX MAY BE ASKED

State's Funds Would Be Bolstered Greatly by Added Tax Solons Claim.

COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 4.—Fastening upon an excise tobacco tax as probably the best method of bolstering Ohio's flattened pocket-book, the special legislative committee on taxation today decided to ask Governor George White to approve a bill levying a one-cent tax on every ten cigarettes and a ten per cent tax on the maximum retail price of cigars, stogies and chewing tobacco.

The revised tax bill, was read to members of the committee today by Clarence Laylin of Columbus, its draftsman, without serious disapproval being voiced at any time.

The taxation committee expressed the belief that the plan can add as much as $12,000,000 to Ohio's tax total and possibly can meet the crisis which the state faces in its problem of arranging a $70,000,000 budget with only about $60,000,000 to spend.

Senator Robert A. Taft (R) of Cincinnati, committee chairman, will take the bill to the governor to learn his opinion of the proposal. The measure will also be submitted to Senator Robert L. Rohe (R) of Tiffin, chairman of the senate finance committee, and Representative L. P. Mooney, (F) of Logan, chairman of the house finance committee.

FOR ANY CHILD

CHILDREN are happy and carefree by nature, so when they cry for no apparent reason any careful mother worries. No one can always guess just what is wrong but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as baby has a fretful spell, is feverish and cross and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes it's constipation. Just keep Castoria handy and give freely for any of the above conditions; relief will follow promptly.

All through babyhood, Castoria is a mother's standby, and wise mothers do not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Just increase the dose of Castoria and keep the youngster's stomach sweet and the bowels in good order.
